With joy I read of dear Letter - I shall tell no more of Love - the cold word and cannot express what I feel - your aff. husband adores, respects and doats upon you - Never was there a man deserving of so much goodness & affection - I have a thousand things to say to my dear wife and it is almost 5 o'clock - I am very well and will be obedient to your commands - if I get a chance I will write again tomorrow -

Adieu God preserve & bless you - you are infinitely dear to your John Dickinson

Every body loves you - My aff. remembrance to Lady Anne & Comp. to my dear - Love to Charlotte

The young woman M. G. wrote at home her this morning & described M. G. & her very well - She is 23 years old - very little an engaging countenance has been well instructed in housekeeping - has no objection to living in country, or any where that she can be happy - M. G. said so much at her - that I was induced to think of her seriously - and I am of opinion she is exactly what you want - I told her of our situation is - at she is required to do but she had no objection - I mentioned that the customs in the country were different - that country is also different - in short I said very thing that I think of to frighten her - M. G. asked a number of questions of the type of small linen - if it is made gowns &c. - and told her
