

My Aunt has passed a very bad day her fever & oppression on her breath encreasing every moment - Indeed to so violent a degree that without wait^{ing} for Dr. Turton at nine o'clock - Mr. Yonge bled her - when Dr. Turton came he approved of what had been done - she appears somewhat relieved - but not as much so as was to be expected - upon which Dr. T. has order'd a blister - which if she is not very speedly & very greatly relieved from the oppression - is to be put on - she was much obliged by your kind concern which wth her Love she charged me to assure you of
