Welwyn, 31st August 1884.

When I last troubled Miss Hamilton with a letter, I mentioned an Application I had made to the King to be appointed D. Adjutant General in Scotland. I have this morning been informed that my request has not been granted. I have not the presumption to suppose that she will feel herself in the least degree interested in anything that concerns me. — if she had felt a wish for my success, she would probably before this have pardoned an unintentional neglect. I can only add, that I ever had the greatest esteem & regard for Miss Hamilton & that I experience the deepest concern at her having ceased to treat me as her
