I send you, with a fare well pang my Lead of ~~Supper~~ & send the Salphur of the damaged Pionbino angustus, with the Name of Dioscorides thereon, which proves plainly that The Angustus is the work of the same celebrated Artist. Beso good as to present both to the Duchess I will if possible wait upon her Grace by 3 o'clock — The bills which are in her Grace's pocket both very unprofitably would save me 5 p. Cent which I am paying; if the business therefore can be closed I shall gain of the Duchess will not lose — I think I think the inclosed receipt would secure the Duchess in case any accident should happen to me before the Vase is delivered to her Grace. — There Cipriani will begin his drawing next week but He is not to be depended upon I had as soon wish that the Duchess would keep the Vase till He is ready to make the drawing as have it myself for I have daily plagues upon the subject

Yours most affly
My Dear Sir

W. H.
