

Mr Hope presents his respectful Compl^{ts} to Mr^s & Miss Hamilton. He is happy to hear they are safe return'd to Northton.
He intends paying his respects to them in person, in the afternoon; if they do not prevent him. — In the mean while, he begs Miss Hamilton's acceptance of the Companion he promised to the last Drawing he gave her. — It will shew he has amused himself, in her absence, with other Things than Concerts, Scandal, Excursions & Verfes. — It has little merit than being the only Drawing he has done for eleven years past, which, & the Goodwill with which it is given, must plead with her for all it's Imperfections. —